THE LATEST IN FASHIONS

LOUIS XIV. BASQUE OF DAGUERREOTYPE, DAYS. Rumor says there is a distinct leaning among some of the Paris couturieres toward the 'Louis styles' of the sixteenth and seventeenth centurics. One model which undoubtedly derived its raison de'etre from that period was made of a silky permo finished material in pervench or bluish violet shade. The bodice was long and pointed in the back, the skirt gathered full with the back breadth looped up below the knees. Sleeve and bodice were cut in one and embroidered in floss and gold thread, while a yoke of gold filed in the low-cut V. A high, crushed girdle, so becoming to a truly feminine woman, forms the waist finish.

AN ENJOYABLE PARTY. Miss Clara Klonder entertained a few f her friends very pleasantly last evening at her home, 532 Indiana avenue, The affair was in the nature of a valentine entertainment and very pretty decorations were chosen for the parlors. A color scheme was nicely carried out in red and gold. Festoons of red hearts were draped from the chandellers to the four corners of the room and in the arches. During the evening games and music were the diversions, after which the guests were invited into the dining room and served with a three course luncheon. Among those present were: Misses Minnie Turner, Florence Jackson, Hazel Taylor, Kate and Daisy Emery, Cazola Reeder and Nellle Thompson of Chicago.

SPEND AN ENJOYABLE TIME. Miss Mable Cotton entertained a few of her friends in the freshman class at a valentine party last evening at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred S. Cotton, in Truman avenue. The parlors were attractively decorated appropriate to the season with hearts and cupids and the prevailing colors in the decorations were red and white. An informal musical program was rendered during the early evening and Miss Caroline Hess presided at the plano. Miss Margaret Haefer gave a few enjoyable vocal selections. Games and guessing contests were other features of the evening until a late hour, when luncheon was announced. A daintily arranged course luncheon was served. The members of the sophomore class made their usual raid during the evening. which caused an amount of excitement Those present were the Misses Caroline Hess, Florence Wilson, Ethel Smith, Marguerite Haefer, Adele Merz, and Messrs.
